

Bottles Down

It is a known fact that recycling and reusing waste helps us keep the eco-system clean. Most old bottles end up at a landfill or a bottling plant.

Keeping this in mind, Anjali Venkat, a glass artiste from Chennai has come up with innovative use of old glass bottles. She upcycles them, that is repurposes them into dishes, clocks, platters, candle shelters, napkin holders, planters, wind chimes and lots more. Used and discarded glass bottles of all types, shapes and colours go through processes of drilling, cutting, etching, melting and are then shaped into objects of functional art. Be it your home or office, these aesthetically appealing objects can be used to add an ounce of character to your existing space.

Vouch for the upcycled glass bottles and give a different look to your abode!
